

Events for this weekend in New York

Saturday, November 15th 2008, 4:00 AM

In the mood for some experimental music? Then head out to The Stone to hear New York icon John Zorn play saxophone along with a slew of special guests on electronics, trombone, drums, bass and guitar. "John Zorn Improv Night I" is a benefit for The Stone, the music venue that Zorn himself started. Saturday. 8 and 10 p.m.; $20. Ave C. and 2nd St. For more information, go to: www.thestonenyc.com.

Emerging electro-pop group Death Set perform a concert at Webster Hall. The group is known for their aggressive beats and heavily-synthesized sound. They appear along with groups Ninjasonik and Appomattox. 8:30 p.m.; $8-$10. 125 E. 11th St. (212) 353-1600.

Tony Award-winning singer and actor Brian Stokes Mitchell breaks away from his regular Broadway routine to perform a cabaret style show entitled "Songs...I Wanna Sing." Stokes Mitchell is known for his roles in hit musicals like "Kiss Me, Kate," "Ragtime," "Man of La Mancha," and "Kismet." Saturday at 8 p.m. and 10 p.m. and Sunday at 7:30 p.m.; $88-$109.46. 540 Park Ave. (212) 339-4095.

The Dude abides this weekend as Lewbowski Fest NY returns to the city. Catch Creedence Clearwater Revival Revival, the tribute band, at the Fillmore at Irving Plaza or head over to Lucky Strike Lanes for some serious bowling. Stick around after bowling for the free after-party at Beauty Bar. Saturday and Sunday. Times vary; $20-$25. For more information, go to: www.lebowskifest.com

Elizabeth Mitchell performs at the Peter Jay Sharp Theater. Though she's singing songs by the likes of Woodie Guthrie, Velvet Underground and Bob Marley, the concert has a kid-friendly spin and is targeted for a younger audience. Perfect for parents who love music and want a folksy antidote to the other music offered today. Saturday. 11 a.m.; $15-$27. 2537 Broadway at 95th St. (212) 864-5400.

Concert pianist Garrick Ohlsson plays a show at 92nd St. Y. The mast of classics explores the work of Alexander Scriabin, including the composer's edtudes, sonatas, and preludes. 8 p.m.; $25-$48. Lexington Ave. and 92nd St. (212) 415-5500

The Empire State Building lights up the night in its traditional all white. Dusk to midnight; 34th St. and Fifth Ave.

Fax complete information on openings and other events to (212) 210-2203, or e-mail ncarter@nydailynews.com.

Amy Eisinger