

The Voice of Russia

Moscow hosts Scriabin Year events

Tags: Russia, Alexander Scriabin, News, Culture, classical music, concert

Jan 6, 2012 10:33 Moscow Time

Alexander Scriabin. Photo: RIA Novosti

Russia is hosting a series of events in commemoration of outstanding composer Alexander Scriabin, who would have turned 140 on January 6th. The Year of Alexander Scriabin opened with the Prometheus Festival in Moscow which features the great composer's works performed by the cream of Russian and foreign pianists.

Russia is hosting a series of events in commemoration of outstanding composer Alexander Scriabin, who would have turned 140 on January 6th .

The Year of Alexander Scriabin opened with the Prometheus Festival in Moscow which features the great composer's works performed by the cream of Russian and foreign pianists.

Also on the program is an exhibition titled The Genius of Russian Music, which displays Scriabin's manuscripts and documents, and a series of meetings and concerts by the winners of the Scriabin Scholarship.

TASS